Foreward

From its first meeting in the fall of 1952, when representatives of forty-four rehabilitation centers met under the sponsorship of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation and the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the Association has been dedicated to advancing the cause for more effective rehabilitation of handicapped disabled individuals.

In the past decade, the membership has tripled and its character broadened to be significantly representative of expanding concepts in the field of rehabilitation. Individually, and collectively through the Association, members are active in continuing programs of research, development and professional education at local, state, regional and national levels.

Thus, when the Association secured the necessary grants for a three year research project, "Establishment of a Voluntary Reporting System and Directory of Rehabilitation Centers," it accepted the responsibility with enthusiasm. The project objectives were consistent with the professional interests and goals of the Association. And because of the broad membership base, the Association was uniquely qualified to undertake this assignment. The Directory is a significant interim result of the work accomplished on the project thus far.

During its relatively short existence, the Association of Rehabilitation centers has been privileged to make many contributions to the improvement and expansion of rehabilitation services in this country. Representative of their scope and nature are the following:

Many publications sponsored by the Association are basic references in the field of rehabilitation.

In cooperation with the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation it has conducted an Institute on Rehabilitation Center Planning for representatives of 200 new and expanding centers. From this effort came two of the most widely used references on rehabilitation centers, titled, "The Planning of Rehabilitation Centers" and "Rehabilitation Centers Today."

In cooperation with the American Institute of Architects, Pennsylvania State University, and the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, it co-sponsored the development of the first authoritative guide for architects to aid in improving the design of rehabilitation facilities, "Rehabilitation Center Planning - an Architectural Guide."

It actively participated with the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults in the development of standardized accounting, statistical and reporting procedures for rehabilitation centers.

When requested, and upon its own initiative, it has furnished information and factual data to private organizations and agencies and committees of all levels of government concerned with public rehabilitation programs.

A problem-solving, information-sharing workshop is held annually immediately followed by the annual meeting of the membership. Proceedings of the workshop have wide circulation.

Currently it is engaged in a major study to develop basic standards of operation for rehabilitation centers.

Preface

The publication of this Directory marks an important point of progress in the larger project, "Establishment of a Voluntary Reporting System and Directory of Rehabilitation Centers." The data provided by participating centers makes it possible to present concise but meaningful descriptions of characteristics and operations of individual rehabilitation centers in a form and with a degree of coverage not available heretofore. It provides a basic resource long desired by workers in the field, particularly users and purchasers of rehabilitation services. Center management, planners, and others concerned with the development of rehabilitation will also find it useful.

The heart of the Directory is Part I, which contains individual descriptions of 131 centers in the United States and Canada. Part II, "Group Profiles of Centers," graphically presents ten related factors representing experience for the group as a whole. The reported information in each case is for a twelve month period -- the majority of centers used the calendar period ending December 31, 1961. The balance used a twelve month fiscal period with the ending of the period varying up to May 1, 1962.

The present Directory can be considered a prototype. As the number of centers participating in the Voluntary Reporting System increases, the Directory will more nearly fulfill its ultimate objective. That goal is to provide workers in the field of rehabilitation with a comprehensive national directory of facilities and services which are available to the handicapped disabled in this country and Canada.

Using the Directory

Part I - Individual Center Descriptions

General - The same descriptive format is used for each center. Included are those services, operations or characteristics which are broadly applicable to all rehabilitation centers irrespective of differences in patient service orientation or other factors.

The centers are listed alphabetically by state and alphabetically by cities within states. 131 centers, representing the Institutional Membership of the Association of Rehabilitation Centers located in 40 states and Canada, are described. In addition two centers are listed for which data were not available and three are shown without descriptive detail because they became members after deadline date.

When a center is a unit within a larger institution, the unit name is listed first. Example: Dept. of Rehab. - Jones General Hosp.

Ownership - Stated as either voluntary, public or proprietary.

Center Serves - Patients are classified in three age groups: Children (0-15yrs); Adults (16-61yrs); Older Aged (62yrs & older).

Types of Service - "Nursing bed" denotes inpatient care under 24 hour direct supervision of registered nurses. "Dormitory bed" described "independent living" type care and accomodation. When the center assists patients in arranging for living quarters outside the center, it is indicated.

Conditions Admitted During Reporting Period - "Reporting Period" is shown in parentheses. The primary handicapping problem at time of admission is listed. In some cases, a center may admit a particular condition, but, because it was not treated during the reporting period, it is not shown in the description. The complete list of "Conditions Admitted" follows:

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Mental Retardation | 15. Poliomyelitis |
| 2. Emotional Disorders | 16. Peripheral Nerve Disorders |

PART II

GROUP PROFILES OF CENTERS

Part I of the 1962 Directory of Institutional Members of the Association of Rehabilitation centers contains descriptions of 131 individual centers.

The group profiles presented in this section are derived from reported data collected by the Voluntary Reporting System Questionnaire in a survey of 131 member centers of the Association of Rehabilitation Centers. (1962)

Totals of some tables vary because not all centers completed all sections of the questionnaire. (e.g. - 79 centers reported ages of 70,000 patients and 111 centers reported presenting conditions of 87,000 patients.) Wide variability exists in many phases of operation in rehabilitation centers. Because of this factor, average scores should be interpreted with caution. To avoid the use of fractions, figures have been rounded where appropriate.

*Ratio = $\frac{\text{Filled Positions} + \text{B.U.P.}}{\text{B.U.P.}}$

Example: 10 therapists are employed in a center.
2 positions are currently budgeted but unfilled.

$$\text{ratio} = \frac{10 + 2}{2} = 1 \text{ to } 6 \quad (\text{i.e., for every 6 total therapy positions, there is 1 budgeted but unfilled position.})$$
